I've been following tech news and the tech community for the last five years. It doesn't take a professional law degree to see what Microsoft has been doing, and where they're going next.

The computer industry is set to merge with communications, home appliances, health, life, and everyday living. And the justice department is about to slap the hands of the most influential, if not all controlling power of this realm in his world.

Now is the time to act while we still have the political where-with-all to manage such retribution. If the US government, the power that was able to land a man on the moon without the aid of "all mighty" Microsoft folds now, there is no telling what forces will control the destiny of our world. One thing for certain, it will not be the free will of its people -- not that it's been that 'til now, but it is still a dream.

Please do not let the American tax payers down. Big Business may pull the strings, but we pay your salaries.
